THE 1850 CENSUS OF

TYLER COUNTY, VIRGINIA, now WEST VIRGINIA

With that part of PLEASANTS COUNTY.

Taken from TYLER in 1851

GEN CO MARY G. CURTIS
ANNED 317804 221

In the early days of Tyler County filled up, one of the most numerous and most active of the mountain and for many years the chief mining region in the state between these two areas can be found in the gold mining districts. The first road goes far beyond the boundaries of the county of the county.

If there is sufficient demand, the 1850 census of this county will be copied and indexed by any organization connected with this work.

PREFACE

1277647

Tyler County, Virginia was set up from Ohio County in 1814. At that time it included all of present Wetzel County and part of what became Pleasants County in 1851. At the time of the 1850 Census, the entire area was a part of Virginia. In 1861, a demand was made by the western counties for a separate government on the side of the Union. Two years later, the State of West Virginia was established. With only four people of color in the county of Tyler in 1850, it is easy to understand why the county was not in sympathy with the Confederacy.

After the Revolution, with the easing of the Indian troubles, the increasing population caused people to leave the more settled areas of western Pennsylvania and Virginia, to settle in the Ohio Basin, on both sides of the river. Charles Wells (he of the twenty-two children) had taken up large tracts of land along the Ohio above and below the site of Sistersville. It was natural that many of his friends and relatives settled nearby. Thus the early settlements of Tyler County were made up largely of people of Maryland origin who had lived for a time in Washington Counties, Pennsylvania or Ohio and Monogalia Counties, Virginia. Later many came directly from the more easterly parts of Maryland, Virginia, Delaware, Pennsylvania or New Jersey. A scattering of people will be found from other areas.

As the bottom lands of Tyler County filled up, many of the more adventurous spirits moved on into the midwestern and far western states. Often the missing person in the link between these two areas can be found in the 1850 census of Tyler. Thus its value goes far beyond the immediate confines of the county.

If there is sufficient demand, the 1850 census will follow this volume with other Virginia counties of the Ohio Basin later. The editor will be most happy to hear of any errors of reading or interpretation in this work, or any information concerning Tyler families for her files.
